

SNGPG APRIL 2012 SPRING SEMINAR and MEET & GREET. ..at The Country Inn in Warren, Rhode Island...a beautiful day!

Some of the best deals in the pumpkin world were made outside. Here Woody Lancaster from the NEGPGA helps Tom Privitera from New York unload products from his Extreme Pumpkin Store Truck.

Once again Joe Jutras stocked up on a ton of North American Kelp and Granular Kelp. Dan Hajdas, Joe Goetze and a bunch of other Berkshire Growers struck a deal with Joe and loaded up their trucks for the ride home to western Massachusetts.

Steve Sperry from Rhode Island and Gene Larivere from Connecticut check out a trailer load of Greensmiths Humic Acid on Matt De-bacco's Trailer. His Trailer was full at 10:30 and almost empty by 11:30. That's what happens when almost 100 growers show up to make their Spring Amendments.

The free Seeds and Growers Pots were a hot commodity for those in attendance. These will help some growers get the best seeds possible in their patches this summer

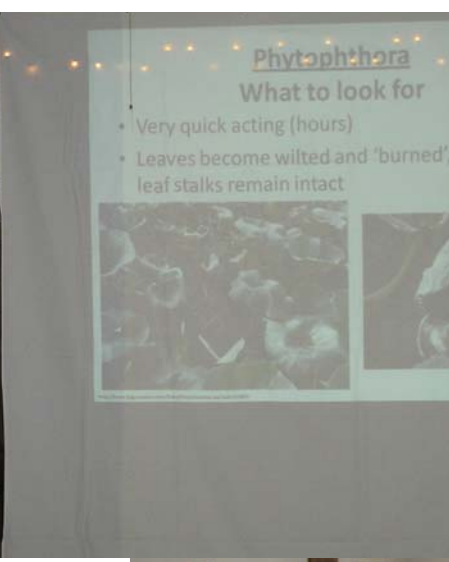

Matt DeBacco discovered the Seed Table and obviously found some keepers.

FREE prizes from our Sponsors like Neptune's Harvest, Biota Max, RTI, Natural Industries, Holland's Land O' Giants, Don Langevin, North American Kelp and Bioworks, were really appreciated by all in attendance.

Matt Debacco did a great presentation for all the growers about Disease Identification and Prevention methods, plus General Plant Health. There was a good sized crowd on hand. Shown are just a few of those in attendance. Peter Rondeau MCD the Seminar and introduced some well known heavy hitters like Tom Privitera, Joe Jutras and Ron Wallace. They fielded a lot of questions with some with "top secret inside information" and some very serious answers. No stones were left unturned.
